33. Burley off Burley Hollow Road

Location: US 60 W to Burley Hollow road (615) on the left for 5.1 miles. Turn left and go to the end of Burley Hollow Road where there is a cul-de-sac. On the upper right side of the cul-de-sac you will see a driveway to the Shady Mountain Farm Retreat. Continue up this drive until you get to the two old barns, one on each side of the drive. (Private- ask at the Retreat office) Stop at this point and walk left through the gate to the horse pasture. The grave site is not marked but is referenced by two remaining clues. One is the rocky edge of the original road to the home place of the William. Burley family. (The house is currently being used and is in sight). The other reference is a flattened track on the hillside just below the aforementioned road bed. It goes around the hill and not upward. This was the old road to the hog pen. The small Burley cemetery was located between these two reference points and was always a small cemetery, possibly containing only two interments. GPS gives approximate area.

Proceed 0.48 mile to a gate in the fence line on the left (north). The cemetery is approximately 275 feet north of the gate in a pasture on a knoll at a grove of trees. Off to the right is the abandoned Knight/Burley/Bailey homestead. The cemetery is neither maintained nor fenced. The headstones are on the ground. The Sallie Hull headstone could not be located although the Knight family reported it there some years ago. Other possible interments are William (Billy) Knight and Susanna Roberts Hill Knight. There are five or more gravesites. A slave cemetery of fieldstone markers is northeast of the house in a tree line.
