Location: Take Route 60 West to Dodds Ford, turn left on Route 635/Buffalo Springs Turnpike and continue to Allwood, turn right on Route 636/Slapp Creek Road. Continue on past Mountain Top Drive where Slapp Creek Road turns to gravel; continue on Slapp Creek Road past Banks Mountain Drive which is on the left; you will need to take the next road on the left – an old logging road which does not have a name (but does have a National Forest sign with logo). Proceed .1 of a mile and there is a gate that is closed except for hunting season (October till January). You can walk around gate so go 390 feet down the road from the gate. Look down the hill on the left side of the road and you will see the Hartless Cemetery. The cemetery is 150 feet from the road. One of the tombstones is broken as a tree has fallen on it (E.J. Hartless), but you can still read the information lying on the ground. Two other tombstones have names and information which can still be read. You can also see many other graves marked with just stones. The tombstones are in the George Washington Forest, but some of the graves that are just marked with stones are on private property.
